

'WHO AM I'

During the early seventies, I was an apprentice bricklayer in a small, family-run company in Lancashire, Northern England. Sharing this part of my background should make the audience feel connected and trust my journey, showing these humble beginnings and my utter dedication. It also highlights how starting from a hands-on trade instilled resilience and work ethic that propelled my later ventures.

During those rain-ridden days, we'd shelter in the 'Brew Hut' playing cards like three-card brag, Jim Rummy, Whist, Pontoon, and a game that I now call 'Shoot'. These moments created lasting memories, and I still feel the excitement of those days, both as a player and a spectator, which I hope resonates with you.

I left the building industry in my mid-twenties, following a football injury in which I fractured my skull and endured a near-death experience. Overcoming this life-changing event, I embarked on a new journey, focusing on ticking boxes on my bucket list before I die, which I hope inspires confidence and respect for my resilience.

I have always had a creative life, but now, with no fear, I'm free to express myself, and I became the Chairman and founder of National Clamps UK. This prestigious company operated in over 350 towns and cities throughout the UK. My patent for a wheel clamp, used by the 32 boroughs of London under the Road Traffic Act, exemplifies how my innovations addressed real-world needs, establishing credibility and industry impact. I also founded ANPR Ltd, providing proprietary software that opened and closed gates, barriers, and tolls, further demonstrating my contribution to technological advancement.

Now, at 70, and I still own and operate AutoCaravan.Co in Mijas, Spain, a company that buys, rents, repairs, and sells MotorHomes. This ongoing success shows my commitment and ability to adapt, inspiring confidence in my new venture, a platform that uses cutting-edge technology to preserve memories in a modern, accessible, and interactive way for all ages, reflecting my continuous drive for innovation.

Good luck, everybody, please enjoy.
